James Lawson,
Thomas Legg, James Bishop, Thomas Cordreie, John Brooke, Richard Godfrey, Henry Bryan, John Barnard and Markes Bachelor, constable

Edward Myddleton by the 21st of theis presentes will satisfie Richard Godfrie in a debt of 2s. 1d.

Margaret Goolde is inhibited to victuall any further unless she atteine Sir George Careys favour by order

The 11th of theis presentes. John Priscot, alias Uncle, did take out of the vates of James Bishop a cipp or foote of tan lether and the same carried through Roberts Meades and Cliffe Cloase and nere to the pound of Brading about the twilight did deliver the same to John Scarvell, which John paid 4s. Therefore the other 2s. rested unpaid, and further did lende Uncle a sack to carrie the leather in; and the 14th of the same month, the matter was found and confessed; and the 16th day it was confessed before all the company then in the haull, but the matter is respited and no determination was done.

The 16th day also It was declared by Jeremy Young in open haull, that the said J. P. the elder had carnal use of Elizabeth in the kitchen of Widow Gold and therefore gave her 12d. and also willed herb Digg eooty to drink against the same.

February 1593/4

William Waldron killed a bull

Margaret Dalacort the said day voluntarelie said in the [word?] presence of the [word?] that Goldes wief divers and many times said that John Priscott's fishe pond should help paie her rent, and that she commonlie did take the wheat of his in the barn, beat it out, and hide it in her oven when anie search was made, and allso did burne the ryndes or bark of the said John; And Goldes wief, at Michaelmas last, willed Richard Brooker to bring sawdust and lyme to throwe into Priscots pond, and that done, she said the carpes there would be so astonished he might easily take them.

Thomas Barloe said to divers inhabitants that George Potter had carnall copulation with Goldes wief & gave her therefore a french runne, at the time when John Westmill staid them at Brardinge aforesaid

Margaret Dalacort saith that the morrowe after Matthew Daie last, [blank] did deal carnallie with Goldes wief in her great chamber, where she then dwelled; And at the going awaie of Thomas Austene, Goldes wife laie with him all night untill five of the clock in the morninge

March 1593 6th day

Richard Broker confesseth

Goldes wief had 10d. and one fishe pece out of the eight carp he robbed out of J. Priscott's pond for her share, Mrs. Fuller allso, he sayeth that had five of the Fishes at 20d. wherof he had 10d. and Goldes wief, 10d., as assessed, and Middleton had 8 Fishes for his sale.

The second Fishing Richard Brooke and E. Middleton had other 8 carpes which E. Middleton sold at Portsmouth, and for them had 20d; which 20d. the said E. had 8d. of it, and Richard Broker 8d., and 4d. they allowed to the seller of them.

The Fish that Goldes wief had, Richard Braman, with others, were at the eating of him in which tyme E. Middleton came in, saying to them:
"Have you no fear, noe shame, so to eat this Fish openlie".
Goldes wief lent them a bagg to putt in the Fishe.

The premises were affirmed by Richard Brooker in the presence of James Lawson, bailive, Thomas Legg, Richard Mullines, Ambrose Leventhropp, and Seth Oastler, which Richard Brooker is readie to affirm the same by oathe, being the event required for Mullines whereof the said Richard hath to these presents set his hand &

Lamas Day 1596 [1 August 1596]

Thomas Manfield in the house of Joan Godfrie, widow, disturbed Her Majesties ledge people then & there present, and in most vile and mutinous way flouted, scolded and taunted at John Brook, one of the Burdges of Brarding Towne.

The said same day in the eveninge the said Thomas did come to the house of Thomas Legg, then one of the 2 Bailives and there & then, in taunting sort, expunged against the said 2 Bailyves, & said to John Corderie he wold crosse his hed with his dagger or anie other that then and there maintained action against him, for he was all in comparisons viz. for learning, wit, service or els, and those present were but dunces to him: Richard Bull and Henry Hale persuaded him to the contrarie, but he endured his berodrage, saying the said Bailyve was no corporal neither was capable to perform anie matter he did undertake, and in this matter soe did outradge & contynueth:

August 24 1596

The penie raindged loafe of Richard Bull wanted 3s. after the rate of 40s. the quarter

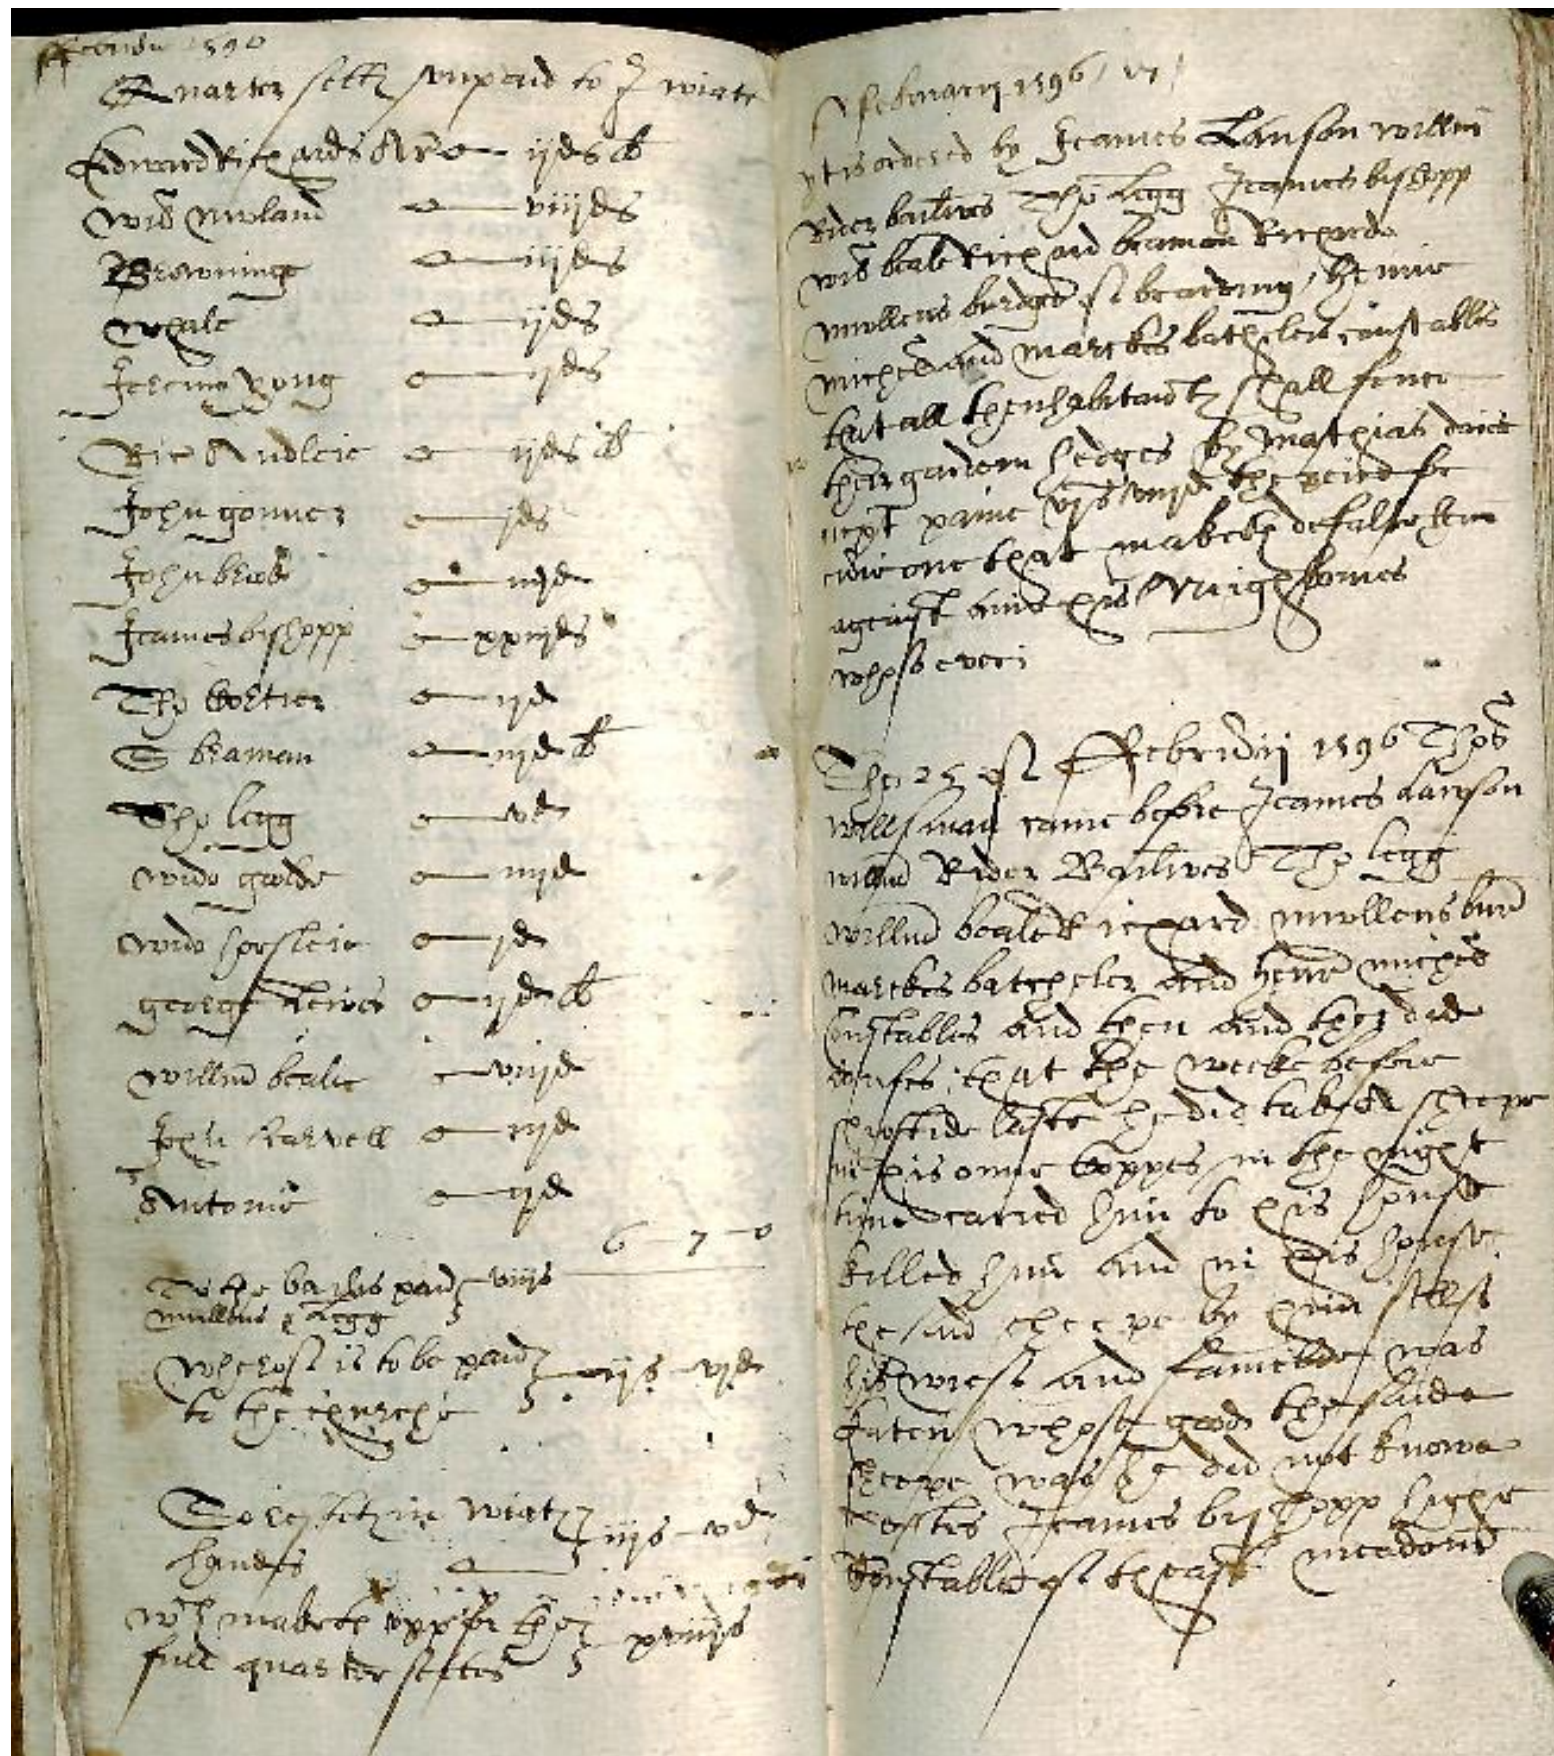

The penie white loaf of the saide Richard Bulles wanted 4s.

The said Richard and his wief taunted at the Constables &, in railinge sorte, said the Constables' officers were to weie the bredd at his Avid & not els wher; And that there ought his bred to be weied wheat, being at the price of 5s. 8d., as he said he gave, which was no truth for wheat was then sold for 4s. 4d. and 4s. 8d.

Farther he said there was no bredd weied anie wher, wheresoever;

Also he refused to come to the Bailives to see his default, & to have his assist: but rested resolute uppon his former counterpart to the breedinge of muteneie rather in rebellions between one of Her Majestie's subjects that ought to obeie Her lawes in this case.

in the moneth of November 18, he demanded a [word?] colt of Rafe Tagg, being the proper goods of Ann Godfreie of Blackpan, widow. The said Rafe answered that he bought the said colt in the fair at the price of 3s. 4d., last holden at Brardinge. Thomas Corderie and the wife of Richard Bull affirmeth that Rafe Tagg said to them that he bought the colt in forme aforesaid.

John, servant to the said Ann Godfreie, also demanded the said colt at the hands of Rafe Tagg, which Rafe said the bonnes [bones] of the said colt did lie in Rowbrough Lane, and the dogs had eaten the fleshe.

The 27th of July 1610

There was question before the Baylieves & burgesses concerning certayne chestes which Ralph Tagg was supposed to have conveyed with a bad intent.

Rafe Tagg answered that he layd them there where they were hidden because he was overladen: yet when they were missed, Tagg sayd that they would have served him for a purpose;

Item Whereas Tagg was accused to have conveyed a chest into his backside, he first sayd it was no chest, and afterwards confessed it to be a chest and it was sayd to be the best chest of all the rest, reported by Thomas Bushell

As touching the two chestes which he brought home in his cart from the castle; he said that Mathias Brading gave them to him.

Item the 12th of August 1610 at night in the house of William Hill, Raphe Tagg, was demanded of Mathias Brading whether he gave him any such chestes as abovesaid & he utterly denyed it and sayd he would answer it, what he had sayd & don before any man whatsoever.

Item He said his thiller was overlayd going downe the hill & he was like to kill his thiller and his boy, therefore he did unlade the said 2 chests,
